

Co. E Shines - In Reflection Of Determination Of Glades People

By 1st Lt. J. W. Bass

Months prior to 19 July 1958, wheels were turning. From Headquarters 51st Inf. Div. to the 21st Reg. down to 2nd Bn. Hq. stacks of typewritten paper, mimeographed booklets, memos, directives, rules, regulations, check sheets, operational procedures and administrative orders poured into the 21st Reg. Hq. of the Glades unit of the National Guard.

From officer level administration this correspondence was broken down, screened, interpreted and its implementation began. The actual job of DOING was the responsibility of the non-commissioned officers (Sergeants, Sergeants First Class and Master Sergeants). The desired accomplishment was self-imposed responsibility of each of the men.

Every man from the Company Commander to the newest recruit felt a certain personal responsibility toward making this summer field training period the best ever for Co. E, 21st Inf.

From the Defense Department had come the order to "CUT THE RESERVES". The Army, Navy, Air Force and the National Guard. The only catch being that the other reserve forces (other than The NG) would not be affected so much because their strength was not high enough to result in an actual loss of men or units.

Whereas, the National Guard with a strength ceiling of approximately 400,000 men would, under the proposed cut, lose both men and whole units.

The 51st Division being one of the outstanding divisions of all the U.S. and Co. E being one of the lowest strength units in the 51st we, AND ARE worried that should the cut come along the most under strength units would be the first to be cut.

Therefore it is our intention to go to summer field training and show our Command Level that despite our low strength, we were the best rifle company in the Regiment.

We started early Saturday morning with the men checking their weapons and equipment and the non-commissioned officers that there were no details left undone. The officers checked departure times, training schedules, and lists of supplies which would be needed.

We were rated by regular army officers, which started their meticulous procedures at night. Monday, as far as I am concerned they made no allowances for the fact that these men are not active duty soldiers but actually civilians for fifty weeks out of the year.

To give an example of the caliber of training on any day several of the men received low scores because their buttons on the khaki shirts were not the same shade of color. The men worked from four and five a.m. till eight or nine at night. On several different occasions they worked till midnight preparing the tents, buildings and equipment for the next day inspection. Permit me to make it clear at this point that the men were not ordered by Army or National Guard regulations (Continued on Page Three)

Keeps Guard At 4 Million Men

The appropriation bill providing funds for the National Guard and the Army Reserve passed by the Senate Aug. 13 contained an amendment offered by Senators Spessard H. Holland and Thurmond added language making it mandatory to keep the Reserves at 4,000,000 men, provisional language was inserted making it mandatory to keep the National Guard at this strength throughout the current fiscal 1959.

Holland was instrumental in the Senate for the National Guard. After the Appropriations Committee added sufficient money to maintain a guard at 4,000,000 men, provisional language was inserted making it mandatory to keep the National Guard at this strength throughout the current fiscal 1959.

Also included in the bill were amendments to maintain a standing Army of 800,000 and Marine Corps at 100,000.

Principal Charles Godwin announced the opening of the South Bay School for the new term, with the faculty reporting to school Tuesday morning, August 19 for a half day. The afternoon was spent in West Palm Beach in a general meeting of all county faculty members for announcements and general information in regard to the new year.

Reporting in West Palm Beach on Wednesday morning, August 20, for meetings and planning sessions by grade level or subject was suggested by Mr. Godwin. Thursday attended a district meeting of the Florida Education Association held in Fort Pierce. During the remainder of the pre-school period, the faculty will be at work at the school building planning and making preparations for the new term.

Student Registration
All students are asked to report to the school building Tuesday morning, August 20, between the hours of 9:00 to 12:00 and 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. for registration. This will require a very short time for each student, but it is most important that the following is a list of the faculty for the new year and the grade or subjects to be taught: Mrs. Wilma Carter, first grade; Mrs. Laura Willis, second grade; Mrs. Edna Maxwell, third grade; Mrs. Margaret A. fourth grade; Mrs. Lucille Ruder, fifth grade; George King, sixth grade.

When those two plans are put into effect, the public will have suitable points for recreational facilities in all areas in the 17-county Flood Control District. Additional recreational area access will be provided as recreational needs expand.

First Boat-a-Cade From Our Marina Set For Aug. 29

The first boat-a-cade to originate from Belle Glade's rapidly expanding marina facilities on the River Canal at the south edge of "Rory" Island will assemble Aug. 29 between 9-2-30 when about 25 boats of the Riviera Beach Outboard Club leave for a Labor Day trek to Ft. Myers. L. L. Price, Executive Secretary of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce, made the announcement early this week. A meeting of chamber boat-a-cade and port committee members of the Riviera club to make necessary arrangements to accommodate such a venture at the port.

Elated over the occasion, Price said this appeared to be only the beginning of a major attraction to the lake.

The Riviera club included in Belle Glade boat enthusiasts to make the trip to the west coast with them. They plan to return on the afternoon of Sept. 1.

Lake Level Safe For Storms: FCD

Central and South Florida Flood Control District officials said late last week that the Lake level was now at what they termed a safe stage if a hurricane should come to the Glades.

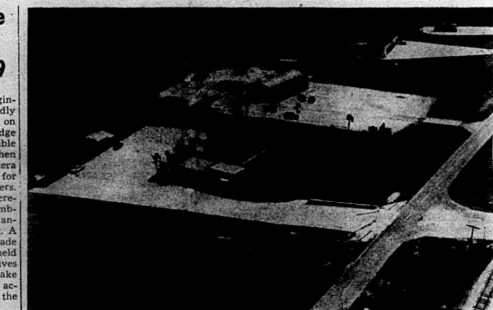

B. Arnold, executive director, said the level of Lake Okechobee at 15.5 when the QLSFCD check was made, which was "just about what is should be as termed."

The lake is lowered before such hurricane season as a flood precaution. Arnold went on to say a tremendous amount of rain would have to come before the lake would be "out of control."

No additional discharges are planned unless excessive amounts of rain falls. Pumps at each of the stations are tested weekly. With modern high-powered pumps and conservation area, the FCD feels that such disasters as the 1928 hurricane when the muck levees washed away are much less likely to occur.

Complete with spacious parking area and palm tree landscaping, the $118,000 structure will open for business Sept. 2. The aerial view of the building located two miles north of Belle Glade on SR 15 shows the caretaker's residence at the left with the county road and bridge district barn immediately south. ## Pioneer Resident And Historian Of Okelanta Dies At South Bay

A pioneer resident of Okelanta, Jan Van Nijhuis, 77 known more popularly as John Newhouse, died unexpectedly Thursday afternoon at South Bay.

He had been in poor health for the past few weeks. Graveside rites were held Monday at Clewiston, Rev. L. C. Woolridge, pastor of First Baptist Church at Clewiston, officiating.

Born Nov. 9, 1880, he left Gelderland Province, The Netherlands and migrated to South Dakota before coming to Okelanta in the fall of 1914 just as the settlement of Okelanta began. He was clerk of the general store for about seven years.

While there he was instrumental in getting the first telephone line from the coast to the Glades. Newhouse became associated with various survey crews then worked at Brown's Farm and Everglades Park of State Station until he retired nearly 20 years ago to live on his property at Okelanta where he owned a considerable amount of land which was sold prior to his death.

During the 30s, with nothing else to do he wrote a complete, accurate history of Okelanta with photographs which was never published. The original of his document is now in the Everglades section of the University of Florida library.

Public education in the Glades now accounts for more than four millions of our dollars; public education in the Glades brings nearly three quarters of a million dollars annual payroll to the Glades.

Anyhow, the education and guidance of our youngsters from age five to 18 is the most important industry - they're our most valuable crop!

Just how much do you know about your public educational system - what are the qualifications for your kids' teachers; how much pay do they get; what kind of men are our school board members?

What activity do you participate in with regard to the schools - do you belong to the PTA, the Board Parents Association your Home-room Mothers group, the Athletic council or the school group?

What do you know about the candidates for school board election? Do you know the boys and girls who direct our school system?

Evans Unopposed Two Seek Central Commission Seat

Qualification for candidates closed Wednesday for Belle Glade's general election. Sept. 2 with Mayor W. J. Evans unopposed in his bid for a second term while two candidates filed to seek the Centralborough post being vacated by Walter Ashley.

Ashley now resides in North-borough and cannot seek re-election. He did not choose to oppose Evans.

Both Centralborough candidates are making their initial bid for political office. Palmer January and F. Lester Clark both said they are seeking the post as a natural development of their interest in civic affairs.

Since 1949 only two other candidates have entered a commission race unopposed. Julius T. Harris in 1949 and Harold Rabin in 1954, both from North-borough.

Mayor William Evans, completing his first term as commissioner, was named mayor in 1957. A 20-year resident, Evans is a farmer and harvester, a Mason and Baptist church member. He is the son of a former commissioner, G. I. (Pop) Evans.

Elks Teen Center

By Georgiann Mills
Hi, Kids! Well, we sure had another grand time at the Elks Teen Center last week. The largest number of teens was there that've been there all summer.

Cline Paulk has in the prettiest blue and white checked dress with a white collar. Did you notice it? Her hair looked pretty, too. Margie Yates was back with us looking cuter than ever.

Kenny Parker dancing is the most. You could call him "Elvis" of "swivel hips". Larry Harris could be considered in the same group Morgan Tyson wasn't dancing. Girls, you're slipping!

Steve Johnson from Clewiston along with Barbara Peters, Gloria Taylor and more kids from Clewiston spent acted as if they were enjoying themselves, didn't they? Dan Hayes sure was giving some of the girls a rush. Girls he isn't going with anyone... get busy... Brooks Whitlock's cousins from Illinois sure are cute boys. They aren't going to be here much longer.

Butch Davis had a real cute girl there... Where have you been hiding her, Butch? By the way, where did you ever learn to dance so well? Judy Hunter should be a very good card player before the summer is over. She is a slacker at the card tables. The kids from out of town are acting very nice. Keep up the good work.

Teddy Roman and Pat Anderson can do the cha cha very well... Jeff Thomas is being cut by the rag lately. Maybe he will take Arthur Murray or Fred Astaire's place in the dance world.

Ray Hayes, Diddy Mills, Roy Bennett, Ken Boynton, Larry Thurnburg, Teddy Roman and David Moore sure are cute! Girls, they are on the loose!! Did you notice Diddy's cute little hat?

We would like to thank the chaperones and Elks members who were there and did such a nice job of keeping things straight. Thanks, Well, let's all go to town and make some new.

E. C. Mapp Named To Hereford Association
Elmer C. Mapp, Belle Glade, has been named to membership in the American Hereford Association, the world's largest purebred registry organization, with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

The Association maintains active accounts for more than 80,000 breeders of registered Herefords over the nation. ## A SHORT STORY ABOUT PROTECTION

Out of Africa comes a story about a cattle rancher who was plagued by lions. They raided his corral, broke down his fences and made off with his prize bullocks and heifers. The rancher got himself the most powerful gun he could buy and kept it loaded at his bedside. But now, for one reason or another, no lions attacked.

After a time, the rancher put his rifle on the shelf. Then he took the cartridges out, and when the rainy season came the lions came.

One quiet summer night the lions came prowling again at the farm. He rushed for his gun but couldn't find the bullets, and when he did, the rifle was in rusty it wouldn't fire. The rancher suffered fearful losses.

This story parallels the history of Salk Vaccine. The American public contributed millions on a March of Dimes to find a preventive for polio paralysis. The Salk vaccine, developed on a March of Dimes grant, was the long-sought-for answer.

But now that we have the weapon, we allow it to spoil on warehouse shelves. Three out of seven polio-susceptible persons have failed to get their shots. So alarmed are the authorities like the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis that they warn against new polio epidemics this summer.

Nobody else's vaccination—even your children's—will protect you. Each person has to get his own. Don't take a chance - take your polio shot.

During the 1956-57 season, 65 percent of the cotton and shipments of fruits and vegetables out of Florida were made by truck. Railroads carried 38 percent and other means accounted for three percent. Just 10 years ago the situation was almost entirely reversed with railroads accounting for 67 percent of the volume, trucks 31 percent and other means two percent.

Who Made The Lot?

If you were a young lady used to being modestly well-dressed and suddenly your complete wardrobe was "gone with the wind" wouldn't you be annoyed? Well, the ladies we're talking about is annoyed too, and small wonder!

The amount of luggage allowed on a plane passenger is necessarily limited. With plans to leave Belle Glade by plane on June 1, the lady of our story shipped her entire wardrobe by express to her home in a western state about ten days before leaving to assure it's being there when she arrived. Only her immediate needs accompanied her on the plane. Her mother was critically ill and she knew her stay might be indefinite.

Well, to shorten the story she arrived in her native western state — but the clothes hadn't — and didn't. The mother passed away early in July and the daughter stayed on for a month — still with no wardrobe received. All this while the express company was "checking" back in Belle Glade the past month and they're still "checking!"

Somewhere between here and the far west is a shipment of about twenty dresses, several pair of shoes, linens and miscellaneous items, but they're doing the lady small good. Meanwhile she still has to dress every day and on a limited income it doesn't plan out so well.

Casualty Close

Well, here we are once again on our way this time headed for the New England states and Canada. The way we left N. J. it was drizzling rain but we couldn't complain too much for the weather man has been pretty kind to us.

We drove over the George Washington Bridge and watched the skyscrapers fade out of sight as we left N. Y. City. We soon crossed the line into Connecticut. The rolling hills and green trees made a lovely picture as we sped along the countryside. We stopped at a beautiful picnic spot for our lunch.

Before we knew it we were in Providence, R. I. We drove around the capitol and were surprised at the narrow streets and tall buildings. It didn't take long to reach the Mass. Line where our first stop was Plymouth Rock. We saw the famous "rock" and then went through a house that was a reproduction of one of the first homes erected in the early sixteenth century.

When we went on the Mayflower, it was the one that many of you probably went on when it was in Miami. We were quite interested in Captain's quarters, the hold, the galley, etc.

Just a few miles away from Plymouth was the Ellen Haven Camp where we spent the night. On the way to the camp we passed acres and acres of field green fields that we had not seen before. There were ditches running both ways. And then Tommy remembered a movie he had seen in a Science class and told us they were cranberry bogs and later we found that Alaska is one of the leading producers of cranberries.

The next morning we drove to Boston where we saw Paul Beever's home, the Old North Church where the lantern hung and many other interesting old buildings as well as some attractive new ones. Then we crossed the river to the Bunker Hill Monument which is on Breed's Hill. That seemed rather strange to me, but anyway it was very interesting. That must have been quite a battle. From Boston we drove past the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University at Cambridge and now I know what is meant by "ivy covered" buildings. On the way out of town we went past Longfellow's house where he wrote "Paul Beever's Ride."

Our next state was New Hampshire and we have about decided it is one of the prettiest states we've been in. The countryside was perfectly beautiful with blue lakes, rich green trees, and rolling hills. That night we camped by a rocky mountain stream and all of us enjoyed the water. So far we have had few insects of any kind to bother us but that particular night we had sand flies as soon as the sun went down. We did not linger long over our supper that night. However, a good spraying out of our sleeping area did the trick and we had a comfortable night's sleep. We find that day light savings time does not seem to be working.

Facts You Should Know About Federal Control

Federal subsidies inevitably require Federal Controls. Federal "assistance" is a myth. Federal money is Federal taxes collected from us all. Federal intervention invites local-state responsibility, inefficiency and disinterest. Federal intervention could diminish the constantly-growing local-state initiative in education as evidenced in —

(a) The rise in the average of teachers salaries from $3,010 in 1949-50 to $4,850 in the 1957-58 school year;

(b) The fact that of the nation's 1,200,000 classrooms that will be in use this fall, over one-fourth of them will be less than five years old, and more than 40 per cent will be less than ten years old.

We have a good plan worked out where everyone has certain jobs to do, and that gives all of us some time to enjoy the outdoors.

The next morning we continued our journey northward and stopped to see the Flume Gorge and Avalanche Falls. It is quite a walk up a mountain highway but is really worthwhile. It is a narrow gorge between high rock walls and at the top is a waterfall tumbling over big jagged rocks. The rock formations here were very interesting.

We stopped to inspect it closely and took pictures. And then before we left the New England states we saw quite a few more also in Canada. Our next stop in New Hampshire was at Glen Echo Falls, one of the prettiest waterfalls we have

One of the trees we enjoyed the most was the white birch. At some places the road would be completely covered by them. At other places the mountain side would be covered almost solid with the white birch trees.

House Committee Hears Favorable Report On Migrant Housing Bill

Congressman Paul G. Rogers' migrant labor-housing bill has been reported favorably by the Housing Subcommittee to the full Committee on Banking and Currency. The Congressman stated that the Subcommittee had recognized the dire need and merit in providing an insured program which would enable farmers and farm associations to provide adequate housing for migrant laborers.

Mr. Rogers in testifying before the Subcommittee stated that the housing conditions for migrant workers were deplorable and that the provisions of his bill would help to provide decent, clean and safe living conditions for over one million American workers who make up the migrant labor force.

"Adverse weather conditions in Florida, pinpointed the acute housing situation facing Florida migrant laborers," Mr. Rogers said. The Congressman stated that Fla. State Representative Emmett Roberts of Belle Glade, Chairman of the State Inter-Agency Committee on Migrant Agricultural Labor, appointed by the Governor, previously had conferred with him regarding the seriousness of the migrant labor housing situation and the need for corrective legislation.

The State Inter-Agency on Migrant Agricultural Labor supported Mr. Rogers' bill, as well as many other Florida organizations, including the Florida State Board of Health, the Florida Farm Bureau Federation, the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association, the Palm Beach Council, and Parent Teacher Association.

The Florida State Board of Health in its statement to the committee said that many of the shacks existing for migrant workers were unfit for human habitation and it was essential that acceptable quarters be provided.

The migrant-labor bill as reported from the Subcommittee, amends Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 to establish a new program under which the Secretary of Agriculture would insure loans made by private lenders to farmers, associations of farmers, and county governments for the purpose of providing housing and related structures for migratory farm labor.

He is one of 288 District Governors supervising the activities of more than 9,800 Rotary Clubs at executives in 110 countries and geographical regions throughout the world.

Wherever Rotary Clubs are located, President Bolton asserted in discussing the Governor's visit, their activities are similar to those of the Rotary Club of Belle Glade because they are based on the same general objectives — developing better understanding and fellowship among business and professional men, promoting community betterment undertakings, raising the standards of business and professions, and fostering the advancement of good will, understanding and peace among all the people of the world.

Each year, this world-wide service organization annually organizes a number of projects to grow in numbers and in strength, President Bolton added. During the past fiscal year, 150 new Rotary Clubs were organized in 51 countries and geographical regions, bringing the total number of Rotary Clubs to an all-time high of nearly 10,000 and eight countries were added to Rotary's Roster — British Honduras, Eritrea, French Guiana, Laos, Martinique, Papua, Virgin Islands and the West Indies Federation.
